

Safety of Feed and Manufacturing Technology

Occupational Certificate, Diploma, and Master Degrees

Program Vision

The program aims to provide learners with special skills in the field of animal, poultry and fish feed and its components, the different methods of manufacturing and evaluating them, and ensuring their safety from various harmful pollutants and their conformity with Egyptian and international standards, as well as feed factories and components and their suitability for processing and manufacturing processes, which will ultimately lead to an improvement in the performance level of employees. In this field, creating new job opportunities and attracting more investment, as well as preparing specialists who are able to compete in this field at the local and regional levels and in light of international quality standards.

Program Mission

The Faculty of Veterinary Medicine, Cairo University, through this professional program for graduate studies, is committed to preparing a qualified, highly skilled and distinguished veterinarian in the fields of safety of feed and manufacturing technology in accordance with the requirements of the local and regional labor market and within the framework of professional ethics.