

Principle Courses for PhD

Code & Name	Contents
CYH- 2010 Functional histology	Structure of different tissues of the animal body - showing the function of each tissue as well as its relationship to other body tissues so that the organs of the body act in harmony with the vital functions of the body.
CYH-2011 Advanced microscopic techniques	Different types of unconventional microscopes such as the transmission electron microscope and scanning electron microscope and their methods of work, explaining some models of different cells and structures in the body.